SUBJECT : Internal Reorganization of the Office of Scientific Intelligence

1. 2. While the proposal contains no increase in the number of overall positions [REDACTED] for the current fiscal year, it does include changes in the grade structure which, if approved, will increase the overall average salary by $95 per position or from $6,290 to $6,385. These averages were computed on salaries in the FY 1953 budget as against the proposal.

3. It should be noted that if the proposal is approved, it is estimated that an additional overall amount of $33,070 would be required on a full year basis. This amount represents the difference between the present "in budget" estimate [REDACTED] and the adjusted amount based on the proposal of [REDACTED]. It is believed this difference could be absorbed within the present amount in budget. 25X9A2

4. It is noted that the proposal also contains a request for three additional supergrade positions (GS-16) one for the Chief of Operations Staff, one for the Chief of the Intelligence Production Staff, and one for the Chief of the Physics and Electronics Division. It is realized that these three supergrade positions have been submitted for consideration of the Review Board in accordance with CIA Notice 105-52 and that the Board has included them in the overall recommendation for the establishment of new supergrade positions. However, no action can be taken to establish them as T/O positions until proper approvals have been obtained from the Director and the Bureau of the Budget.

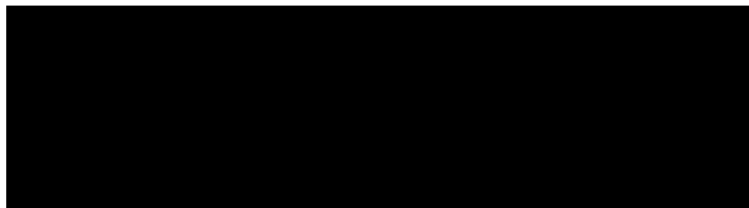

5. A comparison between the positions "in budget" which is substantially the same as the current T/O and those proposed shows:
